

To Parents of girls in Year 9 and above

9th February 2012

Dear Parents,

What it takes to get into Management Consultancy

We have held a very successful programme of careers talks in the first half of this term, and I am very pleased to be able to invite your daughter to the next one on Friday, 24th February at 4.00pm in the Sixth Form Library. Mrs Sarah Mahal, who was partner in a large global management consultancy company, will give the girls an overview of the different types of consultancy firms, what is involved, what would be expected of an employee and the opportunities for career development. Prospective candidates are expected to show strong evidence of team work and commitment to extra-curricular activities, as well as leadership qualities. These have been common themes through all of the careers talks and something which, as a School, we value highly and endeavour to both support and facilitate.

I hope you will encourage your daughter to attend and to find out more. Tea will be provided, and to assist with catering, please would you email: careerstalks@farlingtonschool.net to confirm her attendance. The talks usually finish just after 5.00pm.

Yours sincerely,

Alison Binns
Assistant Head
